Seasonal Poetry Inspires, Uplifts and Delights

Each season is an opportunity for beauty, renewal, and self-transformation. Through poems tailored to the themes, moods, and emotions of each of the six unique seasons—Winter, Thaw, Spring, Summer, Harvest, and Autumn—this collection of original poetry pleurably evokes the joys, sorrows, and triumphs of living in a glowing world: a world that is vibrantly alive with energies that can nurture, revitalize, and inspire us all.

Living In A Glowing World is an irresistible collection of living, glowing gems, handed to us as gifts from a joyous heart. Ms. Howell welcomes us into a place that sings with wonder, where no detail is too small to celebrate and every moment of life is a treasure filled with promise, holiness and meaning.—Diane Farr, award-winning novelist

Here is a marvelously spiritual, sensory feast of seasonal poetry. Howell's rich, life-affirming poetry is an antidote to cynicism, fast-food-infotainment and shock value in our culture. Her glowing words give us back a glowing world.—Kristin Johnson, My Shelf Reviews

Since 1990 Trisha Adelena Howell has published numerous articles, stories, and poems on a wide variety of subjects in newspapers, magazines, and anthologies. She holds a BA and MA in Philosophy, MA in Humanities, and MA in Critical Film Studies. She's taught at Montessori schools, Stanford University, and the University of Southern California and frequently offers educational programs at libraries, schools, bookstores, and other organizations. Her lifelong love of nature and of poetry come together in this collection.
